HERRON FALLS ON OWN KNIFE

Says Homer Highland in Explaining the Fatal Fight Between Them.

ELKINS, May 24.—Details of the tragic death of James F. Herron, a Sunday school superintendent and well known farmer, near Blue Rock school house in Middle Fork district, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock indicate that the fatal wound was inflicted by Homer Highland, a justice of the peace, in self-defense, Herron having attacked him.

Mr. Highland stated that Mr. Herron had come to his house about 8 o'clock Sunday morning to see him about a little matter of legal business and after some conversation began to abuse him, whereupon he ordered him off the place.

The Highland family spent the day with Mrs. Highland's brother-in-law a mile away and on returning in the afternoon met Mr. Herron with his two little daughters and William Currence, who had been to Sunday school.

The argument, Mr. Highland states, was renewed by Mr. Herron and a tussle ensued in which both parties were considerably bruised up. The contestants were separated by Mr. Currence and during the interim Mr. Herron procured a stone and opened his knife, seeing which Mr. Highland also procured his knife and when the former struck him he stabbed him in the breast.

The contestants clinched and fell to the ground. Mr. Highland got onto his feet but Mr. Herron sank to the ground dead.

Mr. Highland contends that he did not kill his neighbor, but that he fell on his own knife, which was lying under his body when he was picked up.

The affair is a most unfortunate one and created great excitement throughout the entire section in which it occurred, as well as in all parts of the county, both men being widely known.

Mr. Highland is a justice of the peace, wealthy, popular and has a wife and four children.

Mr. Highland immediately surrendered himself to Justice W. G. Daniels, of Mill Creek, who gave him a hearing at the Blue Rock school house and held him to await the action of the grand jury. Constable J. W. Shreve and Dr. Perry Bosworth also officiated at the hearing.
